IRKUTSK, Siberia, July 19.—With his lead over the present globe-girdling record almost wiped out by heavy rains and fog which held him earthbound here for many hours, Wiley Post resumed his bold dash around the world today, hopping off for Khabarovsk, Siberia, at 1:00 P. When Post landed here at 9:35 p. m. yesterday (8:35 a. m., E. S. T.), he had a lead of 16 hours and 34 minutes over the record he and Harold Gatty established over the same route two years ago.

Mystery Atmosphere In Albany Kidnaping

(International News Service)

ALBANY, July 19.—An atmosphere of mystery and strange "under cover" dealing today surrounded the John J. O'Connell, Jr., kidnaping negotiations, believed to be rapidly nearing a climax.

Even those whose names are projected into the limelight in newspaper advertisements as possible or actual intermediaries professed to be in the dark as to what is transpiring behind the scenes.

Yet Albany fairly hummed with rumors that the release of the young national guard lieutenant, who has been held in $250,000 ransom since July 7, was only a matter of hours.

The O'Connell family's attitude reflected this optimism but they continued to maintain a tight-lipped silence and a policy of non-cooperation with the police.

Unidentified Man Held In Slaying

Pennsylvania, West Virginia And Maryland Police To Question Wounded Suspect

FARMER IS SLAIN WITH SHOTGUN

(International News Service)

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., July 19.—His arm mangled by shotgun pellets fired during his gun battle with police, a 40-year-old unidentified man was held prisoner in a hospital here today while authorities from three states questioned him in connection with the murder of a Buck's Valley, Pa., farmer. He refused to give his name or answer questions.

The man was captured in a farmhouse near Berkeley Springs, W. Va., after state police from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia had trailed him for 60 hours. Officers overpowered him after the fugitive's right arm was injured by a shotgun discharge during the gunfire which ensued when the man barricaded himself in the farmhouse.

Police sought the man in connection with the killing Sunday of Henry Lee, Buck's Valley farmer. Lee was shot in a field where he had gone to investigate a strange noise.

Shanholtz said he was returning with Lee to the latter's home when they heard a noise and Lee went to investigate. He had been victimized by chicken thieves recently. Shanholtz told police the stranger held him off with a shotgun and escaped into the night after mortally wounding Lee.

Industrial Revival Seen On East Side

What a whale of a difference a few weeks makes. Early in the summer the Butler avenue industrial district was nearly as quiet as a farm. The Lehigh Portland Cement Company stacks were cold, the garment factory was idle, and the Blair Strip Steel Company was working part time.

Today the scene is entirely changed. The Lehigh Portland Cement plant is turning out cement 24 hours per day, the Blair Strip Steel is busy day and night turning out cold rolled strip steel, and the National Pants Company has eighty employes at work with more being added every day.

Instead of a few employes going to and from work there are hundreds seen every day, instead of a quiet, smoke free district, the whirr of wheels is in the air and the smoke of industry paints a black tracery against the sky.

There's a difference in the Butler avenue district, a difference that spells shoes and spuds and organdie dresses, a difference that will be felt in the tills of the merchants and the homes of the workers.

POLICE HUNT FOR MISSING YOUTH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Uncle Sam reached into Pittsburgh today to gather up the loose ends of an abduction involving interstate transportation as state and city police of four eastern states joined in a search for the abductor of 15-year-old Jack Woods of Pittsburgh.

U. S. department of justice agents entered the case this morning after authorities of Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut authorities had been notified of the abduction of the Woods boy and his chum, 14-year-old Floyd McClintock.

The McClintock lad leaped from the kidnapers' machine at New Alexandria, east of here, "thumbed" his way to Pittsburgh and spread the alarm.

Federal officers were questioning young McClintock in an effort to dig up a "lead" to the kidnapers' identity or the route he planned to follow when he enticed the boys into his car, covered them with two pistols and threatened:

"I'm going clean through to Connecticut and you're going with me."

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 19.—Mr. Roosevelt, most of your plans are working, recovery is slow, but is fairly sure in most all lines. But one gang beat the barrier, it recovered entirely, and is now re-recovering on its late recovery. I don't think I need remind you what "industry this is.

I think a signal sign saying "slow" on a street called Wall (placed there by you personally in order to let 500 essential industries catch up to them) would be appreciated by all other traffic headed for recovery.

It wouldn't be so bad, but these are the same traffic violators who got too far ahead and bummed up our last parade.

Though the weather keeps on rising and the heat becomes intense, and the ice men sit and chuckle and exclaim "this is immense", all my thoughts are drifting fallward to the days of frost and snow, when the scoreboard show its third down with another four to go. It's too warm I know for football, much too warm for pigskin play, but you can't stop people thinking, though its ninety six today. I can almost hear the whistle and the crowd begin to roar, and I'm waiting for the season when the football teams can score.

HARRIMAN IS UNDER MENTAL OBSERVATION

Banker Returns To Nursing Home

Dramatic End To Second Disappearance Of Former Banker

NOW UNDER WATCH AT N. Y. HOSPITAL

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Committed for mental observation following his second disappearance from a private nursing home, Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank, was under close watch at Bellevue hospital today while attorneys prepared present arguments on resumption of a sanity hearing before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey.

Judge Caffey was presiding over the hearing as to Harriman's mental condition as a preliminary to his trial on charges of falsifying the bank's accounts, when the proceedings were abruptly halted by Harriman's flight from the nursing home.

Dramatic Return

Harriman's return to the institution was as unexpected and dramatic as his disappearance—the second since he was indicted after closing of the bank.

Sought for more than 24 hours by police of New York, New Jersey and federal agents, who feared he had committed suicide, the banker alighted from a taxicab in front of the home late yesterday His clothing was wet and he appeared confused.

Attaches of the institution, recognizing him, hurried him inside and notified members of his family and Dr. A. A. Brill, alienist, who was at the home.

U. S. Attorney George Medalie, heading the prosecution of Harriman, was also notified and hastened to the institution with federal operatives.

To physicians at the nursing home Harriman related a rambling story of having spent his time wandering in Central Park and accounted for the condition of his clothing by saying he had slept in the open Tuesday night.

TWO MORE STATES VOTE FOR REPEAL OF PROHIBITION

day as the votes of Alabama and Arkansas rolled up a total of 18 states ratifying the repeal amendment to the constitution.

The results in these two southern states were a distinct victory for the administration, since President Roosevelt made a personal appeal to the Democratic south to ratify the amendment. It marked the first time the solid south had broken away from the prohibition cause on a direct vote.

The repeal leaders were jubilant. They predicted a complete victory by Christmas, since the repealing amendment must be ratified by 18 more states. Two more states vote this week, Tennessee on Thursday and Oregon on Friday. The repealists predicted victories in both states.

Dry leaders were silent. They declined to comment on the outcome.

More States To Vote.

With Alabama and Arkansas rolling up wet majorities, the repeal issue has been passed upon by voters representing 52,721,592 of the nation's 120,000,000 population. The other states ratifying the repealing amendment were California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Two more states vote in August, Texas on August 26 and Washington on August 29. In September, Vermont, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Idaho and New Mexico will vote. Arizona will ballot in October while North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and South Carolina will vote in November.

On top of these, Oklahoma, Florida, Missouri, Montana, Utah, Virginia and Colorado will fix dates for a vote a little later. Repeal leaders have no fears about securing votes in these states this year, if they continue to roll up victories in the other states.

and 15 minutes here in 1931, so that at the time of Post's take-off today he was only three hours and 24 minutes ahead of the present record.

On Long Hop

As he headed out over the 2,124-mile route to Khabarovsk, however, the intrepid American aviator expected to again build the lead up by slightly faster flying than he was able to do with Gatty and by not making any intermediate stops.

Post and Gatty took nearly 24 hours in getting from here to Khabarovsk, stopping enroute at Blagoveschensk. Post alone expected to make the hop in about 15 hours. If he did this he would reach the eastern city by about 3:00 p. m., (EDT) today and would increase his lead over the present record to about 12 hours.

When Post landed here yesterday after a thrilling hop from Navosibirsk he had planned to stop somewhat longer than he did at the previous stages of his flight, and ordered a "thorough overhauling" of his ship, the veteran "Winnie Mae."

He had not planned, however, on staying here anywhere near as long as he was finally forced to. He tried to get away once, in fact, at 5:00 a. m., (4:00 p. m. yesterday (E. D. T.), but was compelled to abandon the attempt when the soggy condition of the airport prevented his heavily-laden ship from taking the air.

Long Stop Good For Him

The long stop-over undoubtedly was good for Post as far as his physical well-being was concerned, enabling him to get a much-needed rest.

On his previous stops at Berlin, Koenigsberg, Germany, Moscow, and Novosibirsk the flyer had cut rest periods to a minimum and got very little actual sleep. All through Russia airport officials have marvelled at the way he kept up his fast pace without sleep.

Post's long stay here enabled him to store up energy for the difficult and hazardous hops immediately ahead of him.

The dash to Khabarovsk, over Baikal Lake and the mountains surrounding it, across the steppes north of Mongolia, and along the Amur river valley, will be every bit as dangerous as the Siberian stages the flyer covered in reaching here. On several occasions he was lost, and once nearly crashed into a mountain which loomed suddenly out of the fog.

From Khabarovsk to Fairbanks, Alaska, his next scheduled stop, is probably the most perilous hop of the entire flight, the route lies across Siberian wildernesses and the ice-filled North Pacific ocean and the Bering Sea. It was on this stage of a similar flight that Jimmy Mattern, American flyer, came to grief a little more than a month ago, crashing near Anadir, Siberia, after leaving Khabarovsk.

Be patient with the conference. It takes time for 65 nations to agree on the right place in Uncle Sam's neck.

The party recently held a memorial service honoring the late Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, famous pioneer leader of the cause.

Judge Caffey took the matter under advisement.

Pinchot Irked By Gen. Martin

Governor Sends Sharp Reminder To Republican Party State Chairman

SPECIAL SESSION PLAN IS FADING

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, had Gov. Gifford Pinchot's sharp reminder today that less than a week remains to summon a special legislative session to deal with old age pensions if the proposed amendments are to go on the ballot this year.

With a telegram to Martin at Mt. Gretna, the state's military reservation, the governor again prodded him for an answer, caustically remarking that "among civilized people it is customary to acknowledge the receipt of communications."

Ignored Telegram.

General Martin ignoreed the telegram which the governor sent to him at the Republican rally in Selinsgrove two weeks ago.

Governor Pinchot declared that next Monday night is the deadline for convening a special session if an old age pension constitutional amendment is to be advertised as required by law in order to get on the ballot in November. Otherwise, an amendment must wait five years.

He again said there would be no special session unless the Republican organization reasonably guaranteed its success.

"With organization support the amendment would pass like greased lightning," he added.

Pittsburgh Restaurant Men Are Pottery Guests

Pittsburgh restaurant men forgot the worries of menus and meat pies Tuesday afternoon, took the afternoon off and came to New Castle to see for themselves just how their chinaware is made, watched every process in the Shenango Pottery and then finished off the day with a dinner in the Castleton hotel as the guests of the pottery.

The restaurant men have been threatening to do just that thing for some time but never got around to it. Tuesday they took time by the forelock or perhaps the fetlock, and headed by R. L. Gammon, president of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant association formed a motorcade to New Castle.

Guides Through Plant

Guides from the personnel of the Shenango Pottery took them thru the plant, showing them each step in the manufacture of Shenango china, from the raw flint and clay, to the finished product with the Indian on it.

Many of the restaurant men had never seen the inside of the pottery. Their knowledge of china was its use as food servers but Tuesday gave them an insight back of the finished product that amazed them and delighted them. The inspection trip took the greater part of the afternoon and about five thirty they left the pottery and went to the Castleton.

At six thirty a dinner was served in the ballroom of the Castleton with plenty of food and few speeches. R. L. Gammon, the president of the association made a brief speech at the close of the dinner in which he spoke for the other members present.

"We will always remember this trip to New Castle" said he. "It has been an education and a delightful holiday. We have seen how chinaware is made and we know now what a modern plant the Shenango Pottery is. I know that all of my fellow members will remember with appreciation this afternoon and evening's outing and in behalf of the association I want to express the appreciation of all of us who are present."

Charles W. Read, sales manager of the Shenango Pottery responded briefly and the dinner adjourned. Many of the guests stayed for a time visiting with friends in the hotel, others started back to Pittsburgh.

The following is not a complete list of the guests present at the dinner, as some were forced to leave before that time: R. L. Gammon, R. N. King, A. Hoffman, James J. Murphy, C. S. Wilbur, C. E. Foster, C. C. Latus, G. D. Xides, T. A. Kimes, P. T. Morse, Mrs. G. D. Latus, Miss Elizabeth Thomas, R. W. Steurnagel, L. H. Buehig, Mrs. Mary Steurnagel, Mrs. Marie Buehig.

THE NEW SUIT AND THE NEW JOB

WHEN the history of The Great Depression comes to be written, as it inevitably will be, a special chapter will have to be set aside to tell of the originality, the resourcefulness and the creative ability of those who have striven to obtain work for the jobless.

An illustration of this comes from the Unemployment Relief Committee in New York, which undertook to help thousands of men to "spruce up" in order to go and seek jobs. They did this on the theory that a man who looked prosperous was more likely to be successful than one who had the appearance of being down and out. The Red Cross came to the front and offered to pay for 16,000 brand new suits for that number of men hunting for work. The garment makers agreed to do their part for less than the regular scale of wages, and the clothing manufacturers permitted it to be done in their shops without cost. Members of the Relief Committee selected the men and distributed the suits.

With this co-operation 1500 garment workers were furnished temporary employment and the jobless men given the new attire which had the psychological effect of raising their morale and stiffening their self-respect. Even a shave and a shine have the effect of raising a man in his own estimation, and that in turn often helps him with others.

CHANGE IN TARIFF SENTIMENT

One of the most surprising changes in political and economic sentiment is that which has come over the leaders of the dominant party in the matter of the tariff. In the Presidential campaign last year the Smoot-Hawley tariff law was denounced from one end of the land to the other by Democrats and anti-Hooverites. It was charged with having caused the depression, although it was not enacted until long after the depression was started; it was charged with stifling our foreign trade although it is a fact that there has been no greater falling off in our imports of articles which pay a tariff than in those which come in duty here, and our decrease in foreign trade was no greater than that of other nations and less than most of them. We were led to believe that one of the first things which would be done by the new administration would be to revise the tariff downward. Yet a special session of Congress has come and gone and no new tariff legislation was passed, not even one giving the President greater power in changing the tariff in accordance with the proposed international agreements. We were led to believe that when the London economic conference got under way one of the first things to be done would be to lower all national tariffs. Secretary of State Hull denounced the so-called tariff barriers and intimated that there would be some real changes in an intent to revive international trade.

The international conference is now well under way, in fact about ready to adjourn, and the only tariff development so far has been the threat of France and some of the other members of the gold bloc to increase their tariffs against the United States.

But that it not all. Some of the outstanding leaders of the administration have seen fit to take issue with Mr. Hull on the tariff question. Mr. Barney Baruch, referred to as the "unofficial President and Secretary of State," has repeatedly called attention to the fact that there is no use in trying to increase wages and prices at home under the national recovery plan, to shorten hours of labor and improve working conditions if we are, through low tariffs to give the poorly paid workers of Europe and Asia the chance to undersell American industry and farmers in the great American market. Mr. Moley, Assistant Secretary of State and a power behind the throne, has also intimated these views.

Another prominent supporter of the administration Mr. Samuel Untermeyer, in a statement in the New York Times issued just before he sailed for Europe recently, praised the President's national recovery program and at the same time issued a warning as to what would happen if there was "tariff tinkering." He declared that the successful application of the national recovery act precludes tariff reduction and added that "if tariff readjustment, which, I take it, means tariff concessions or reductions by us, are, as I apprehended, the chief object of the nations other than our own at the World Economic Conference, it may as well fold its tents and sail away."

The case was well put almost the same day by Arthur A. Ballantine, former Undersecretary of the Treasury under President Hoover. In discussing the national recovery act he added "The immediate effect of increasing wages and spreading employment as this act provides, is obviously to increase the burden on industry. That means increased prices. And that in turn means that the government must help to make this act a success by using the tariff powers granted by Congress to protect industry against undue importations. This question must be resolutely faced by the government and a helping hand must be extended to industry in that field. I for one believe there is a sincere determination on the part of the government to do just that.

Here is testimony by well known national leaders in both parties as to the vital necessity for tariff protection at this time. Nobody as yet knows just what the economic conference will finally do if anything. But it is getting more apparent that there will be no tariff sacrifices on the part of the United States. To make them would be to destroy what chances we have, under the national recovery program for the restoration of prosperity.

We still think the Lindberghs are just trying to escape the heat.

A lot of the boys would like to help Secretary Ickes spend his $3,000,000,000.

The American position at the economic conference must be right if the French don't like it.

Deadbeat nations cannot understand what is overtaking them but fear it may be retribution.

Nobody has offered a Carnegie medal to the fellow who saved the life of the London conference.

Helen Twelvetress and Peggy Wood would be appropriate entertainers for the reforestation camps.

The economic conference has "recessed" to give European nations time to search for a new Santa Claus.

THE PULSE THAT BEATS.

Long ago, on a sunny morning, I lay in the grass in a garden and felt the sun warm me and strengthen me with its rays. . . . The perfume of many flowers was about me and in all the air. . . . And I lay like a kitten, stretching and content. I was young and the day was young, and I gave no thought to foolish, solemn matters.

As I lay, looking up, I heard a buzzing and saw a bit of flashing beauty, and there, just before me, poised a humming bird before a lily. . . . There was something alive and beautiful. So my hand went forth, almost as if it did not belong to me, and my small fingers closed about that little bird. . . . Just as easy as that.

I felt him there in my small hand, that small rich living thing. He did not struggle. But his heart beat very fast. His little black eyes stared wildly at me. The colors of his breast seemed dim. . . . He was not so beautiful in my hand as he had been in the morning air. So, having watched him f · a little while, I let him go and, swift as a stone from a small boy's hand, he fled my obnoxious presence.

And still, after these many years, I can feel the pulse of that small fellow. I can feel the beat of him, the throbbing life of him. He was my first touch upon the fierce touch of life, my first knowledge of the pulse that beats through everything that lives on this earth.

Often since then I have felt a pulse in life. I have seen it in the fields. I have watched it in the years. I have seen it fall and rise and fall and rise in human beings, in individuals, in nations. I have felt it in acquaintance, in friendship, in love. I have known boredom and excitement, dullness and delight, wisdom and folly, courage and cowardice. I have seen the pulse beating in the throat of life. I have heard its wild throb.

I have learned that our days have their systole and diastole, as all things have, and I have reminded myself many a time that though strength fails me, strength will return; and that though I doubt, belief will come back to me. I know there is a pulse that beats and no one can take THAT away from me.

LITTLE THINGS

True—"a thing worth doing, is worth doing well' but you may be one of those people so meticulous, that you waste a lot of time on unnecessary detail.

You desire everything as near perfect as possible for man to make it—or for you to make it, at any rate.

So you putter around with a lot of little things that don't add one whit to the finished product but the gratification it affords yourself.

Maybe you are one of those old timers who regret the passing of the days when time was not so much an object as perfection in the article.

You cannot accustom yourself to present day methods because you won't try to understand or like them.

The man considered valuable today governs himself by present demands.

In some lines of production it means a degree of perfection which it takes the greatest of skill and painstaking effort to achieve.

But in most lines required speed also is a necessary feature.

This does not mean that you should produce slovenly work with serious imperfections, of course.

It does mean work fast and at the same time in a superior manner.

This can be done, but it will require full concentration on your part.

INFLATION AND TIRES.

Speaking of controlled inflation and currency, don't you forget for one minute that controlled inflation of your tires will conserve your currency! Also, proper tire inflation is a good investment in comfort and safety.

Under-inflation cracks the side walls of a tire. It makes the car harder to steer and increases fatigue in driving. It causes a dangerous "shimmy," makes your car "roll," places an extra burden on your engine, and consumes more gas.

Over-inflated tires make riding bumpy, tiresome, and uncomfortable.

It is important to have the right pressure in all four tires. Check the pressure today, and while you are doing it remember that you may save yourself a hot job in the boiling sun some day by inflating the spare tire.

Loyal and true, as he came my way,

The news prints tell about a dentist in a distant State to whom one of his patients owed a sum of money which he had tried to collect without avail. Then the dentist thought up another plan.

One day, when the slow pay patient came to have some work done, the dentist, without the patient's knowledge, managed to extract from a big molar in the latter's jaw, a large gold filing.

After the man who had lost it departed the dentist weighed the nugget and found that it contained enough gold to cancel the patient's obligation.

He was, therefore, congratulating himself on his ingenuity when the patient who had discovered the missing filling on his way home, returned to the office in a violent rage and demanded his treasure, which had been buried in his offside back tooth, be returned to him at once.

This the dentist refused to do, with the result that the patient brought suit against the dentist for obtaining what the former owed him under false pretenses.

It will be interesting when this case comes to trial to find out whether or not the dentist was justified in excavating for gold in a man's mouth without the latter's knowledge or consent, even though the dentist's object is to recover what is justly coming to him.

Charles Normand, III of Newark, N. J. who will be two years this month, is rapidly gaining measure of fame as the leading cigar smoker of the younger generation. It seems that Charles began smoking when he was fourteen months old and is quite accomplished by now. He is not especially discriminating and though he prefers cigars, he will smoke a corncob pipe if one is offered to him. Whenever a visitor to the Normand home wants to gain Charles' esteem he has only to say "Have a cigar old man" The elder Charles is a graceful smoker who removes the ash from his cigar with an easy flick of his little finger. The young man, try as he will, cannot do this nearly as well as his father. He is not, however, one of those careless smokers who go around littering up the rugs with ashes. Whenever he lights up he points imperiously to an ashtray with the demand "Me want." Charles gets a cigar every night before he goes to bed. He does not inhale, but smokes the weed all the way down. He does not, however, indulge before breakfast. In passing, let it be said that his father bites the end off the cigar for him.

A LOADED PORCUPINE

A fire ranger, sitting comfortably in his 60-foot tower on top of a mountain in Pennsylvania, and squinting through his telescope on the lookout for incipient forest fires, heard a scratching outside the window of his tower, and investigated.

There, on the window ledge, perched a clumsy porcupine, nibbling away at a stick of dynamite which had been placed outside the window! The ranger rubbed his eyes and looked again—there had been three sticks of dynamite there, but two were gone! Obviously the porcupine had climbed up the tower, eaten the two sticks of deadly explosive and was beginning on the third.

The ranger sat petrified. The porcupine is not noted for its agility or sure-footedness in high places. He feared it might make a misstep, fall to the ground and explode with force enough to blow the tower and himself to fragments!

For the same reason he dared not shoot it, so he did what he thought was the only thing to do. He quickly, but quietly, descended from the tower, and from a safe distance watched the animal. The porcupine, after it had finished its dynamite dinner, slowly lowered itself to the ground and waddled off into the brush. Then the ranger, giving it a wide detour, ascended the tower and resumed his observations.

Mattern, Man Of Courage, Is Classed Among Pioneers

Airman Whose Attempt To Achieve New World-Circling Record Ended In Siberia, At Last Frontier, Credited With Explorer's Spirit

James Mattern, young Texas aviator whose plane met disaster in Siberia on his solo world flight, in an attempt to set a new record, is placed by some observers among the pioneers and courageous explorers of the world. His escape from death causes rejoicing, while it is recognized that at the last frontier he was still within reach of the rest of the world.

"General and genuine rejoicing that the intrepid young Texan's life has not been sacrificed to aviation" is seen by the ROANOKE TIMES, while the ESCANABA DAILY PRESS says that "the indomitable nerve of the man could not but challenge the imagination and admiration of the world." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE declares that "men with the courage to tackle such an adventure are truly irrepressible, unquenchable; they bounce out of every trouble; even Fate lays off them." Holding that "he has won his place among heroic characters,' the TOLEDO BLADE points out that "the flight was a failure, the flier a success," for he "needed indomitable will, physical courage and stamina to get through."

"Although he has failed to produce a new marvel in the annals of speed," remarks the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, "Mattern has had the grand adventure, which we suspect will reflect credit upon the resourcefulness and ingenuity of its hero." The SCRANTON TIMES finds satisfaction that "he was not another victim of what many looked upon as an attempt at a foolhardy feat." The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL rejoices that while "he may have lost his record, he didn't lose his life."

The ROCK ISLAND ARGUS comments: "These young men and women of the air are lured by the challenge of great danger and by the thrill and glory which may be theirs if they succeed. * * * The only explanation is that they possess the spirit of pioneers of all generations, always looking for new frontiers to conquer." The DANBURY NEWS-TIMES thinks that "there must be something in the species which informs it that valor is better than cowardice"; that "every species knows death is a small matter and life is the thing."

The LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL declares: "The world had been educated to believe that the last frontier had been crossed and conquered when along came Jimmy Mattern and found a place up on the rim of the world where it takes three weeks to get a telegram back to civilization. And Jimmy had hoped to girdle the entire globe in little more than eight days."

"It is altogether possible," suggests the ALTOONA MIRROR, "that Mattern could have been there for more than three weeks without being able to get word to the world at large because of the fact that there are no means on communication other than by courier. Amundsen, the Arctic explorer, arrived at Anadir in 1920 after being missing more than a year on an exploration trip in the Arctic." The OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN concludes that "the Texan has proved that there are few out-of-the-town places so remote that some word cannot be sent back ultimately to those who still exert themselfs to relieve distress."

"Men who make such stunt flights," according to the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, "are the 20th Century successors of Columbus, De Gama, Magellan, Cartier and the rest. To attempt belittling their achievements by sneering at their motives is poor business and poor logic. The toll of blood in air pioneering is long enough now. It will be longer before the tale is complete. But everyone can rejoice Jimmy Mattern's name is not to be added to it yet."

"As for the moral that a single motor is not sufficiently reliable to maintain unerring buoyancy," in the opinion of the HARTFORD TIMES, "the thought may stand. Colonel Lindbergh has settled that point by experience and study. A plane, flying over vast wastes of land or sea, should be powered by two or three motors, so related to the weight of the craft that it can cruise even if one motor develops trouble. However, Mattern was not interested so much in showing the world how the earth could be circumnavigated as he was in discovering whether he could beat the Post and Gatty record of eight days and some hours. He did not jeopardise that record. He

REGULAR MORTAR

One of the curiosities pointed out to tourists in Foggia, Italy, is a house with wine mixed mortar, nearly 100 years ago. It was built by a wine merchant to cut off the view of his enemy, an influential business man.

Knowing his enemy would stop him through the city authorities, the wine merchant hired twelve men to build it one night unknown to anyone. He had enough rock, cement and sand on the place, but lacked water.

He could not get water from any well in the neighborhood without being discovered, so he had his workmen use wine to mix mortar. The fumes made several of them drunk, but when morning came the building was finished and it is there today.

WHILE A FRIENDS UNDERGOES AN OPERATION

'Tis nine o'clock! How strange the day!
This minute o'er him sleeping stands
A surgeon calm, with skillful hand
To cut the painful part away.
Now to his flesh the knife is laid
And I am sitting here—afraid!

I know above his form they bend
To make him well and strong again.
That ethered body is my friend,
The kindliest and best of men.
Work quickly, surgeon, that I may
Put all these dreadful thoughts away.

Within that spotless room I know
Precisely what it is they do.
The white-robed nurses come and go.
The instruments I plainly view.
An hour to wait! 'Twill seem a year
Again till word from him I hear.

Now, troubled, at my desk I stay
And put in feeble words the prayer
That God my friend to me will spare
And help him through this painful day.
Ring, telephone, your little bell
And bring me word that all is well!

1848—The first women's rights convention in the world, opened at Seneca Falls, N. Y. The first bloomer girls timidly made their appearance at this time. The garment got its name from its sponsor, Miss Amelia Bloomer, who wore it at the convention. The costume, however, is supposed to have been devised by Mrs. Elizabeth Miller.

Although presumably the first agitation of women for the franchise occurred in the U. S., this country was one of the last to grant equal suffrage, in 1920, or 72 years after this pioneer convention at Seneca Falls was gotten together by Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony and Lucretia Mott. Originally the movement was merely a protest against exclusion of women delegates from the anti-slavery convention, in 1840, and denial of their right to speak in public.

1870—The Franco-Prussian war began with France as the aggressor. Great excitement had been stirred up in France by the nomination of Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern for the vacant Spanish throne. His candidature was withdrawn, but the insistence of Emperor Napoleon III of France upon guarantees by Prussia against future intereference in affairs in the French sphere of influence led to the war, in which France was beaten, Germany united, Napoleon dethroned, the war of 1914 fused.

City Officials Make Inspection

Visit Shenango River Where P. & L. E. Wants To Make Roadway

Mayor Charles Mayne and Councilmen Treser, Davies and Hoyland, in company of the city engineer, Harry Hoskins, today viewed the channel lines of the Shenango river, Taylor township, where the P. & L. E. Railroad company desires to construct a private driveway.

Following the view Mayor Mayne declared that it is not probable the city will oppose the construction, providing it does not interfere with the proposed construction of the canal or the Pymatuning water proposition.

The city was notified by Charles E. Ryder, secretary of the Water Power Resources board, Harrisburg, of the request of the P. & L. E. Railroad company.

The request asked the board for authority to build a private road along the left bank of the river at New Castle junction. It would necessitate a fill of 2.6 feet in heighth and 14 feet in width between which the channel lines of the Shenango river underneath the P. & L. E. and B. & O. bridges. The company wishes to eliminate a grade crossing, the letter stated.

Recently the state and city established the channel lines of the Shenango river. As a result the city is interested in the request. The decision rests with the water power resources board.

Judging by what the farmers offer to plow under, this year's cotton crop would have been 47 million bales.

Important Tax Case Is Filed

Will Test Right Of Government To Tax Huge Corporation Surpluses

SEATTLE CONCERN GOES TO COURT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The most important tax case to reach the supreme court in ten years, involving the constitutional right of the government to tax huge corporation surpluses, was on file today.

The question is declared by tax experts to exceed in importance the tax revelations of the Senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and company and other banks both to the government and to industry.

Because of its vital concern in the court's decision, the justice department has decided not to oppose the petition of United Business Corporation of Seattle, for review of the case.

The Seattle concern in its appeal attacks constitutionality of section 20 of the revenue laws of 1921 under which the commissioner of internal revenue was given authority to assess a 25 per cent tax penalty against any corporation piling up surpluses to save stockholders from paying income surtaxes.

The penalty now is 50 per cent, having been raised after charges were made in congress that the treasury had failed to prevent huge income tax evasions.

Says Husband Has Stopped Payments

Hearing In The Case Of Mrs. Charlotte M. Hazen Against Homer Hazen

Hearing in the equity suit of Charlotte M. Hazen against her husband, Homer Hazen, is being held before Judge James A. Chambers at the courthouse today. Mrs. Hazen alleges that her husband deserted her on March 1, 1931. He voluntarily paid her $5 per week until July 24, 1932, at which time payments ceased.

Hazen is now living at Red Bank, N. J., and his wife in this city. He was present as a witness at court this morning, particular inquiry being directed toward personal property, in the shape of mortgages on properties in this county and stock in the Pennsylvania Power Company.

A writ of attachment has been issued on the mortgages, some half dozen, in behalf of Mrs. Hazen. Judge Chambers will hand down a decision later.

Pirates-Giants In Twin Bill At Pittsburgh Today

Manager George Gibson Wants To Win Two From League Leaders Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 19.—Bill Terry's league leading Giants meet the Pittsburgh Pirates in a doubleheader here this afternoon following the Bucs' successful route of the Brooklyn Dodgers in a three-game series.

Hitting well against the Flatbush team in their last three games, the Pirate staff will face the stiff pitching which has put the Giants in number one position in the National League. The Pirates staged three innings of heavy hitting in yesterday's game to continue their wins over the Dodgers, beating them 11-8.

Three pitchers took the mound for the Bucs and the four hurlers that Max Carey tried were unable to stem the tide of Pirate swatting that in the eighth frame tallied them four hits and three runs. With Traynor, Vaughan and Suhr on base in the eighth, Piet hit an infield single that decided the game and gave the Pirates nine victories in 13 games played against the Dodgers.

Hal Smith or the dependable Larry French will pitch for the Buccos in today's meet, while Bill Terry has slated Fitzsimmons and Bell to do mound work for the Giants.

Maybe the new champ isn't an American, but Americans can pronounce his real name.

First Split In Cabinet Accord

Secretary Of War Dern And Secretary Ickes Split Over Sum For Army

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The first approach to a split in the cabinet that has occurred since the new administration assumed office was seen today in the apparent difference of opinion which has arisen between Secretary of War Bern and Secretary of the Interior Ickes over the War Department's plan to modernize the army at a cost of approximately $50,000,000.

Within a short time after it became known that Dern had submitted the plan to the public works administration board, Ickes, who is chairman of the board, announced to newspapermen it had been withdrawn by the Secretary of War.

Dern countered with a formal statement declaring the report he had withdrawn the plan was "misleading".

"I was not satisfied with the action that I anticipated was about to be taken by the board, and therefore asked that further consideration be dropped until a subsequent meeting," his statement said.

May Eliminate Voting Precincts

There is a disposition to eliminate some of the voting precincts in Wayne, and possibly other townships. Wayne townships has five voting precincts. At the last presidential election there was only 32 votes cast at one of the precincts.

In order to change voting precincts it is necessary for citizens of the districts to petition court. A commission is then appointed, and a survey of the situation made. If the viewers find that electors could get along with fewer precincts, a recommendation to that effect can be made to court, which has authority to make the change.

Kiwanis Honors Former Presidents

Post-Presidents Day Is Observed At Noon Hour Meeting Of Club

Former presidents of the New Castle Kiwanis club returned today to receive special honor at an appropriate Past Presidents' Day luncheon-program of the club in The Castleton.

Eleven outstanding community leaders—numbering all the past presidents except one—sat about the speakers' table as the Kiwanians listened to them briefly recount humorous incidents of their long-past administrations.

Past President Dr. Clarence J. Williamson, former church pastor here and now professor of Bible history at the Pittsburgh-Xenia Theological seminary, United Presbyterian school at Pittsburgh, delivered the principal address. For 30 minutes he gave an interesting talk on "Thinking."

Dr. Williamson was introduced by Past President R. L. Wallace after the past presidents, commencing with Mr. Wallace, had formally presented their successors to the club.

Attorney Wallace presented his successor, James Mayberry, and in turn Mr. Mayberry, Fred C. Wolford, Charles E. McGrath, Attorney Thomas A. Dickey, Dr. Williamson, H. Lee Marvin, Capt. Charles Phillips, Judge R. L. Hildebrand, Clement D. Parker and Clarence M. England acknowledged introductions. Mr. England presented the present president, Norman E. Clark. James Love was the only past president absent.

More Shopmen Are Given Jobs

Some Of Furloughed Shopmen Here Are Called To Cleveland

MORE FIREMEN ARE RESTORED TO WORK

Because its furloughed list is completely exhausted, the Cleveland division of the Pennsylvania railroad turned to the Erie & Ashtabula division here today for 40 of its furloughed car repairmen, notifying them to be ready to go to work at the Holton street shop in Cleveland probably on Monday.

The new call means that immediate jobs will be provided for 40 E. & A. men, mostly Seventh ward shop employes. A few will be drawn from the Ashtabula car repair shop.

"Freight business is rapidly increasing and the demand for cars is growing daily," officials of the E. & A. declared, explaining that in pressing times divisions borrow furloughed men of other divisions. However, the jobs may become permanent.

During the past few weeks the Seventh ward shop here has added a large force of furloughed men to its payroll, keeping in step with the car repair shops at other points. The call from Cleveland adds further cheer to the encouraging news of the past few weeks.

Division officials also announced today that during the past week the road has called back 15 additional firemen.

Hollywood Movie Extra Suicides In Orange Grove

Pretty Marjorie Rose Williams, 20, Of Colorado, Shoots Self Through Heart

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Glittering lights of Hollywood today spelled D-E-A-T-H for Marjorie Rose Williams, 20-year-old Leadville Colo., beauty.

Dreaming of fame and fortune in a picture career, Miss Williams came here three months ago determined to "crash the movies".

Day after day she made the rounds of the motion picture studios in a futile effort to find film work.

Tuesday morning she received money from her mother, who requested Marjorie to buy a railroad ticket and return home.

Hating the thought of returning to Colorado "a failure", Marjorie dressed in pretty flaming red pajamas, went into an orange orchard and fired a bullet through her heart.

"I can't get out of this depressed state of mind," Marjorie wrote in a note. "I hate to go home a failure."

The money had come into general revenue from the city golf course receipts and will now be used for golf course purposes, such as paying wages, supplies and for soup for the work relief employes who are detailed there to work.

and others are glad that he lives to save the attempt from being a tragedy."

"Mattern's career," says the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "has been marked by glamour, first as a student in the Army's aviation school at Kelly Field, then as a stunt flyer for the movies, a test and mail pilot and finally as the 1932 partner of Bennett Griffin in an attempt to circle the world. This came to grief when their plane crashed in an unromantic peat bog halfway between Berlin and Moscow. Mattern is credited with the remark to cautious advisers that 'there's no chance of coming out of this world alive, anyway,' but we're all glad his exit has been postponed."

Protests against flights which mean great effort or peril for rescuers are voiced by the SIOUX FALLS ARGUS-LEADER and the ASHBURY PARK EVENING PRESS. The DES MOINES TRIBUNE describes the adventure as "a daredevil stunt, of no importance scientifically."

"One more step in the progress of round-the-world flying" is hailed by the PORT HURON TIMES-HERALD, with the comment that "we may not doubt that the time will come, not so very far hence, when that which Mattern attempted will be a mere commonplace of travel The DAYTON DAILY NEWS views the episode as "a reminder that efforts to save lost fliers should not soon be relinquished as futile, but neither should purely 'stunt' flights be made." The NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE points to existing satisfaction that he "solved the problem of existence and subsistence through long and weary days with no other aids than his own self-reliance and resourcefulness."

Eighty Now At Work At Newest Industry To Be Started Here

New Castle's newest industry, the National Pants company, started deliveries of its products on Tuesday, July 18, when the first order of finished pants was delivered to Fisher Brothers, a New Castle concern. While no attempt had been made to make unusual speed in delivery, it is still a fact that once the new plant was announced, the work of setting up machinery and getting under way moved forward fast.

Each day sees the pants manufacturing plant on the Butler road expanding as to the number of employes. On Tuesday there were 80 people at work and an average of ten new ones have been taken on each day, just as fast as machines can be installed and placed in working condition. For the most part the employes are women, and the machinery used, electric sewing machines. All day long the whirr of the machines fill the air and long bolts of cloth are turned out as working pants.

1500 Dozen Capacity.

As yet the plant is not up to its capacity of production but this is expected to be reached very soon. That capacity will be 1500 dozen pairs of men's working pants per week, with the industries of Pennsylvania responsible for the major portion of the customers.

"Just as you are a trified disordered when you move into a new home, so we are a little that way yet," said Max Schaffer, plant manager, Tuesday afternoon. "It will take a little time for us to get all our machinery installed and employes hired, and still a little more time before we get our production line functioning as smoothly as we want it, but in the meantime we are going ahead turning out product.

"In selecting our personnel we have tried to be as fair as possible. In order that we might get some line upon the persons applying for work we asked Orville Brown and Orville Potter, two of your well known men here, to sit in with us. We are limiting employment to one person per family and in that way we feel that the employment will be spread out over a wider area.

Will Conform to Code.

"Like every other plant in this industry, we are awaiting the formulation and acceptance of a code and when that code is adopted we will immediately put it into effect both as to working hours, rate of pay and whatever other conditions are set down. Until that code is adopted, we are working on a 50-hour week."

"This is our seventh plant and we expect to install another plant in a western state within the next 60 or 90 days. This plant we have here in New Castle is ideal for a garment manufacturing plant for it is a daylight plant, the ceiling is a high one and the air space per employe is more than ample. It is an ideal plant and we want to take our place among the industries of New Castle as a substantial concern, where our employes are well treated."

Interesting Sight.

Looking out over the factory is an interesting sight. The sewing machines are lined along tables, with a wide space between operators. Each machine operator has a definite job to do in the production line, and just as automobiles are assembled, so the cloth goes along a production line until it comes out a finished pair of pants, ready for the presser and the packer.

The New Castle plant of the National Pants company is a specialty plant, with nothing but working pants being manufactured. This means economy in production costs and a maximum of efficiency among employes.

It will take a little time yet before the plant is working at top speed with its full complement of employes. In the meantime, some fast time has been made by Mr. Schaffer in getting his machines assembled and his working force under way. In a few weeks the plant will be operating at maximum efficiency, and another industry will be established in New Castle.

Three Return From Chicago Convention

Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune, of Wallace avenue, and Misses Bess Gailey and Helen Hinkson, of North Mercer street, arrived home on Tuesday afternoon after spending ten days in Chicago, Ill., attending the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

The three, with Miss Mary Scherger, of Gardner, and Mrs. Bertha Bay, of New Wilmington, represented the New Castle club at the convention. Miss Scherger arrived home several days ago. Mrs. Bay continued on west to Iowa after the close of the convention sessions.

All report the convention as being most interesting and very worth while. During their stay in Chicago they visited the World's Fair grounds a number of times.

"Music is a part of living, like food or drink; it contains no great mysteries," say Marion Bauer and Ethel Peyser, both of New York City, who have done a great deal to bring the appreciation of music to all classes of people in the United States. Their first book, written several years ago, "How Music Grew", was designed to make music less a mystery to everyone; their second, published recently, "Music Thru the Ages", traces the history of music. Marion Bauer is associate professor of music at New York university, composer, lecturer and writer. Ethel Peyser is a critic and writer on musical subjects.

Janitors Are Busy Cleaning Building

Summer Months No Vacation For Janitors Of Mahoning School

Although this is vacation time for the students of Mahoning school, it is just the opposite for the janitors of the building.

In order ot have the school in spic and span shape for the return of the pupils in September, the janitors have been and still are hard at work with scrub brushes, soap and water. The walls have been given a thorough going over in the past several weeks and the results are most gratifying.

In addition to the wall cleaning, men employed by the New Castle school district have been plastering a number of spots where it was badly needed.

There has been no lack of activity in the principal's office either. Miss Phyllis Cunningham, secretary to the principal, has been engaged in filing reports and taking care of other school business ever since classes closed in June.

Bell Alarm Is Installed Here

As a safety first measure, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has just installed a bell alarm system on its train platform here.

The alarm will sound when eastbound trains arrive at the point where the old W. A. tower was formerly located, and will continue ringing until the train reaches the passenger station.

This system was thought necessary to warn persons crossing the B. & O. tracks from North Ashland avenue to the passenger platform. Such a condition does not exist on the eastern side of the station.

IRRIGATING SYSTEM

Some ingenuity and hard work have resulted in a splendid irrigating system being set up by C. E. Arble of North Cedar street in the garden of his country home on the Mt. Jackson road.

Mr. Arble erected eight old water tanks, of the type used in home, on a wall at one end of the garden, elevating them about seven feet. Pumped full of water (and it is some job to keep them full) the tanks allow a flow of water to pass by pipe to various parts of the garden.

Another picnic will be enjoyed by the class in August, the time and place to be arranged by the same committee which had charge of last evening's affair.

MERCER SILK MILL INCREASES WAGES

MERCER, Pa., July 19.— Harry Zweifel, superintendent of the Mercer Silk Mills, has announced a 40 hour a week schedule for two shifts, he also announces a 20 per cent increase in wages. This will effect about 70 employes.

The mills have been working steady during the depression.

Not so long ago, a favorite motto of the American people was "Let's go." Today it is disappearing extensively in favor of these words, "Let's stop and think."—The Detroit Free Press.

"No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eights in its price range combined!"

Cool Breezes with the Fisher Ventilation System

Public preference for Buick today is so overwhelming that—with 11 eights in its price range to choose from—more people buy Buicks than all of the other 10 cars combined.

To the man or woman who is not familiar with the new Buick Eight, such dominance may seem almost unbelievable; but to those who have driven this car, and gained even the most casual acquaintance with its capabilities, the reasons for Buick's leadership are crystal-clear.

"What," you may ask, "is so different about Buick? Why do so many people consider it superior to any other car selling at similar prices?" The answer lies chiefly in design. Because of its more enduring design and its finer quality, you will enjoy driving a Buick more years and many more thousands of miles than you would want to drive most cars. And a Buick is easy to pay for on the liberal G. M. A. C. plan. As a result, selection of a Buick is an economy as well as an assurance of thorough satisfaction.

Come in and inspect the new Buick Eight—and take a trial drive. When you have done this, we believe you'll say, "No wonder more people buy Buicks than all other eights in its price range combined!"

Flight By Italian Armada Is Lesson For U. S. Air Corps

Daring Flight Over Greenland Route By General Balbo And Fliers, Is Grave Warning

Air Force Of United States Is Not Able Today To Combat Large Enemy Forces

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 19.—A vital lesson is presented to America in the triumphant flight of General Italo Balbo and his squadron of 24 seaplanes from Italy to Chicago.

This was the vigorously expressed opinion of Brig. Gen. William E. "Billy" Mitchell, former commandant of the army air corps, commenting on the flight Tuesday.

Even more strikingly than previous aerial triumphs the crossing of the Atlantic by the Italin flier and his officers has revealed that this country is allowing foreign nations to outstrip her in air forces, Mitchell thinks.

Would Expand Service.

The former air corps chief plans to use the Balbo flight as an example in urging President Roosevelt to modernize and expand the American air force when he calls at the White House later this month.

Both from a military and a commercial standpoint, the Italian flight has demonstrated the feasibility of trans-oceanic air routes, Mitchell said. He was so impressed that he hazarded the guess Italy might be planning to revive the world-wide sway of old Rome.

"It is not too impossible that the Italians, with their great strides in the air, will bring again to life the great influence and power of old Rome," he said. "This flight shows that country not only knows well enough the military value of a modern, powerful air force, but demonstrates that Italy is awake to the commercial possibilities of trans-oceanic air routes."

Powerful Planes.

Mitchell pointed out that the massed-flight trip across the ocean in all kinds of weather has proved beyond doubt that powerful airplanes can carry useful loads over long distances speedily. But he was more concerned with the fact that other nations are out-stripping this country in military aeronautical work.

"Why this flight alone has shown that Italy can cover all of western Europe—that means France, Germany, England, and Austria—in one flight and get her forces safely back into their hangars," he said. "She can send a party out that will cover all of the Mediterranean, or go from the Straits of Gibraltar to the Suez Canal in one expedition."

Striking Lesson.

All of this, Mitchell went on should prove a striking lesson to America.

"The lesson we must learn," he said, "is that we have done nothing to compare with the work of the Italians—or of the French or of any of the forward looking nations which realize the importance of a single air force.

"Our own organization is perfectly useless as it is now formed. Until we get a better one, our air power is just nothing at all. Here we are fooling with seven and eight hundred horsepower motors as our so-called high-power machines while the other countries are developing engines turning up between 2,000 and 3,000 horsepower.

4,000 Pounds Of Bombs.

"Each one of those Italian planes brought over by Balbo can carry 4,000 pounds of bombs. That is a valuable trade load. Also, it is an explosive load capable of devastating a city or sinking the largest ship afloat.

"Suppose the Italians built underground airdromes where bombs would not affect them. They would have air force that could reach out and spread destruction over Europe in a few hours. Then they could race back to their underground 'dromes, and could not be touched.

"There's a great lesson in that Italian flight. We ought to take heed. If we don't, some day we may be sorry."

Checks Are Returned To Highway Patrol For Collection

Persons who issue checks for which they have no funds in payment of operator's license and auto plates should have a care else it will not only cost them the amount due the state but also a penalty of five dollars.

Dismantling Of Kennedy's Mill Is Being Delayed

Expected That The Actual Work On Structure Will Start In A Short Time

Dismantling of the historic Kennedy's Mill on the Slippery Rock announced some little time ago to be undertaken at once, has been delayed, pending the securing of liability insurance, which will protect the Steiner estate owning the mill from any damage claims, should persons be traveling past the place or be in its vicinity and be injured during the tearing down of the ancient structure.

It is anticipated that this matter will be adjusted shortly and that the New Castle Lumber and Construction Company, which concern has the contract for the work of taking down the building, will be able to start the work in the next week or ten days.

In the meantime, the picnickers, vacationers and others, who have always found this a place of interest to them, will still have the opportunity of getting a last look at the historic structure for that period of time.

Temporary Map Being Prepared For Motorists

Will Show Tourists Improved Sections Of State Highway System

HARRISBURG, July 19.—A temporary tourist map of the Pennsylvania state highway system will be distributed by the department, beginning late this week, Secretary of Highways S. S. Lewis announces. The usual map in colors was omitted as an economy measure.

The temporary map will be small but complete as to the highway system. Only cities and towns which mark junction points will be shown, as the comparatively small scale prohibits showing all towns. The map will show conditions as of July 1.

Secretary Lewis suggests that motorists retain their copies of the 1932 map, which is complete as to towns on the road system, as a guide to location of such places as are not shown on the new map. By reference to the new map the present road conditions and route numbers may be found.

In requests for copies of the new map, which should be directed to department of highways, several days should be allowed for handling and mailing due to the large number of requests already on hand.

AUTO DRIVER IS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Curtis Bell Is Held For Court In Tyler Death

Is Held Guilty Of Involuntary Manslaughter By Alderman Green

JOINT HEARING AND INQUEST HELD

Curtis Bell, Negro, of Division street, was held for court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter by Alderman O. H. P. Green following a hearing Tuesday afternoon. Bell is alleged to have been the driver of the machine which struck Rev. Frank W. Tyler on Moravia street, Saturday morning, inflicting injuries from which Tyler died in the New Castle hospital, early Sunday morning. A joint inquest and hearing was held in Alderman Green's court yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the case.

Several eyewitnesses to the occurrence testified that the car was being driven by a colored man, but were unable to identify Bell as the driver. They secured the number of the machine, and it was traced to the Sutton-Tydol station at Atlantic avenue and West Washington street. Here Bell, confronted by Officers Young and Flinner, admitted that he had been driving the car on Moravia street, but stated that he did not know he had struck anyone.

Had Fractured Skull

The jury which heard the testimony offered before Squire Green and Coroner Orville Potter, brought in a verdict that Tyler died as a result of injuries received when struck by an automobile bearing license No. 72G57. They further stated that they believed the car to have been driven by Curtis Bell and recommended that he be held to await the action of the grand jury.

Dr. Samuel Perry was the first witness examined. He told of being called to treat Tyler at the New Castle hospital, Saturday evening, July 15, about 5:45. He was suffering from shock, he stated, and never rallied, dying early Sunday morning. An X-ray taken after his death, revealed a fractured skull which extended from the frontal bone to the base of the skull, probably producing internal hemorrhages. There was a laceration over the left eye, and his face was badly bruised and swollen. He died around 5 o'clock on the morning of July 16, Dr. Perry stated.

John Benson, of 211 Meyer avenue, was the next witness. Benson stated that he is engaged in the manufacture and sale of pies and that on Saturday morning, he was enroute south on Moravia street, near the New Castle Feed Company. The street is rough and his pie cases had become disarranged from the bouncing over the rough pavement. He slowed down to arrange his cases and when he looked up, saw Tyler spinning around in the roadway, near the west curb of the street and a car speeding away.

Benson stated that he was of the opinion at first, that Tyler had been pushed or hurled from the car, as it had swerved sharply to the left, and Tyler was spinning around in the street. He eventually fell, then tried to get up and fell again, after which he lay still. Benson stated that he had glanced at the driver of the car from which Tyler seemed to come as it passed him, and noticed a Negro who was wearing a cap, driving.

Auto Did Not Stop

After Tyler had been struck, the machine continued south on Moravia street, never stopping. The point where Tyler was hit was about opposite the entrance to the tunnel leading to the New Castle Tin Mill.

Benson said he stopped immediately, and within a few feet of the injured man, trying to get the license number of the car. He was able to recognize the numerals 72G and 5 but was not sure whether the other number in the series at the end was one or seven.

He realized that Tyler had been badly hurt, he said, and went to the New Castle Feed store to call an ambulance. Unable to get one at the moment, he called the police station, and then went back to the scene of the accident.

Tyler was carried over to the east curb, awaiting the arrival of police. Benson said he later told the police of the numbers he had secured from the license plate and was informed they already had the number.

The car was an old Buick, apparently a sedan, or coach, and was a dark blue or some other dark color, the witness stated.

Youth Testifies

Ralph Amodie, of East Reynolds street, a youth of about 14, told of seeing the car strike Tyler. Amodie said he was standing at the corner of Long avenue and Moravia street, near the drinking fountain there and happened to look up the street, just as Tyler was hit. He said that he seemed to be hit about the legs by the right side of the car.

He watched the car come down Moravia street and noticed that it was driven by a Negro. There was another person in the car, he thought, but was not sure whether it was a Negro or white man. When the car had just gotten past, he looked at the license number, which he noted to be 72G57. He did not go up to the place where Tyler had been struck at once, he said, but did a few moments later. He told a fireman the number he had secured from the license plate. The driver of the car sped on toward the viaduct.

The car and license plate was dusty, Amodio stated, but he could make out the numbers clear enough.

Car Owner Testifies

M. R. Hornung, of Sheridan avenue, stated that he owned a 1928 model Buick sedan, dark slate color, and that the license number of the car was 72G57. He said on the morning of July 15, he had called up the service station at the corner of Atlantic avenue and West Washington street and made arrangements to have his car washed.

He drove over to the station and was met by a colored man, who told him he would go along with him to his place of business and bring the machine back, as it was customary for them to do that. He drove the machine to the Shenango Pottery, himself, Hornung stated, and then turned the car over to the Negro, being assured that it would be returned to him at 11 o'clock, the time he wanted it.

When the car was not produced at that hour, he called up, and was informed that the Negro who washed the car had been taken into custody by the police and that there would be a slight delay.

When the car was returned to him, Hornung stated, he found a mark on the right rear fender, and an indentation in the right door, near the handle and a bulge in the body above the fender. None of these had been there when he turned the car over to the car washer.

Officer John Young told of being called to Moravia street by a report that a man had been struck by an automobile. He told of finding Tyler at the left side of Moravia street, opposite the entrance to the Tin Mill tunnel. They took him to the hospital and investigated the occurrence. He was told by a fireman that the car had born the license No. 72G57. He was also told by persons at the scene of the occurrence that Curtis Bell had been the driver of the car.

He went to the Sutton-Tydol station on Mill street and was told there that Bell worked at the station on West Washington street. In company with officer Flinner, he went to the gasoline station and found Bell engaged in washing the car. He was placed under arrest. Young stated that Bell admitted having driven down Moravia street, but denied having struck anyone.

He said that the machine was a Buick, dark slate color, and bore the license No. 72G57.

The jury which heard the evidence was composed of W. G. Marshall, William H. Reck, Fred J. Flynn, Charles E. Allen, James Cooper and L. E. Reebel.

Connery Candidate For County Office

Announces His Candidacy For Office Of Register And Recorder

WILLIAM J. CONNERY

To the Voters of Lawrence County:

In announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination to the office of Register and Recorder, I realize it will be impossible for me to see all voters personally, and it being the desire of the voters to know something of the qualifications of the candidates before voting, I wish to state briefly a few facts.

I have been a resident of New Castle all my life, the son of the late Frank J. Connery who was an employee of the City of New Castle for aproximately fifty years in the Department of Fire, twenty-five years as its Chief. I have been associated with the Carnegie Steel Company in the Office Department for more than twenty-seven years advancing to the position of Chief Timekeeper, which position I held when the plant closed. In this capacity I have been well schooled in office work, such as the filing of important records with accuracy, making up governmental reports, and in office management.

I am the first member of our family to seek a public office. Holders of public office should realize they are servants of the public and in most cases well paid for what they do, and ones holding the more lucrative offices should expect their salaries to be reduced in proportion to the losses in incomes sustained by the average tax payer. These are not vote catching slogans, but are my firm convictions.

In conclusion I feel that my above mentioned training particularly fits me for the duties of this office, which are as follows: The office of Register and Recorder is administrative. It might be said to be the custody and responsibility for the filing and accuracy of all legal papers dealing with the settlement and adjudication of estates and properties through transfer, etc.

I feel that I am qualified and capable of performing the duties of this office, and therefore justified in asking for your consideration and support in the coming primaries, and if nominated and elected, shall put forth every effort to conduct the business of this office in an efficient and courteous manner. I assure you that your vote and support will be greatly-appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM J. CONNERY.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On In Harrisburg— And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania is getting ready to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of free public education within its borders.

One hundred years ago next April 1, Governor George Wolfe signed Act No. 102 which established Pennsylvania's common school educational system. This Act set up the system of school district organization which exists today with each municipality a separate district expected to conduct its own common schools.

Antiquity makes some things more valuable each year, but this is not the case in an educational system. Forward strides in the field of public instruction have been made in Pennsylvania, but these strides have been made in spite of, rather than because of, the basic organization of school districts.

We have in Pennsylvania far too many school districts and huge amounts in overhead could be saved for local taxpayers by consolidation of school districts.

Under that old Act of 1834, appropriations from the States were provided and each district was required to raise by taxes not less than double the amount given it by the State.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth was the Superintendent of all the public schools established by the Act. A total of $75,000 was provided for the year 1835 and a similar amount each year until the income from the $600,000 common school fund set up in 1831 yielded $100,000 a year.

This birth of public education in Pennsylvania is worthy of a real centennial celebration. Plans are now being worked out under which it is hoped every citizen of Pennsylvania will be impressed with the full significance of the State's accomplishments in the field of education in the past century.

But I do not wish to leave you under the impression that Pennsylvania had no schools before 1834.

The first regular school was established in 1683, just 250 years ago next October. This school was set up largely through the efforts of William Penn less than a year after he arrived on Pennsylvania soil.

William Penn is the real founder of education for children in Pennsylvania. His first charter in 1682 provided that "The Governor and Provincial Council shall erect and establish all public schools" and that the young should be "trained up in virtue and useful knowledge and arts."

The second provincial assembly, which met in Philadelphia in 1683, provided "that all persons in this province and territories thereof having children, and all guardians and trustees of orphans, shall cause such to be instructed in reading and writing, so that they may be able to read the Scriptures and write by the time they attain to twelve years of age, and that they be taught some useful trade or skill."

Pennsylvania's first school was opened in a Philadelphia dwelling built of pine and cedar planks. The teacher was Enoch Flower, who is said to have come from Wiltshire, England.

Within a month of the opening of this school the council at a meeting attended by William Penn took first steps toward the establishment of a "School of Arts and Sciences," which is said to have resulted in the establishment of the "Friends' Public Schools," now known by the name of the "William Penn Charter School" opened in 1689, formerly chartered in 1697, and continuously in operation down to the present time. This school ranks with the Parochial School of the Dutch Church in New York, and the Latin School in Boston, as one of the oldest schools in the country.

The growth of free public education in Pennsylvania has been phenomenal. Enoch Flower's tribe has increased to more than 63,000 teachers in more than 12,000 school buildings throughout the Commonwealth. Pupils of the first school in an old Philadelphia dwelling house have increased to more than two million and the total annual cost of public education in Pennsylvania is approximately $200,000,000. This army of children constitutes one-fifth of the entire population of the State.

The preparation of the scholars now in our schools to become the worthy heirs of our generation cannot be neglected if the future of our State and Nation is to be safe. These girls and boys are the future. Therefore, they are the State's most precious possession.

Ford Motor Company
Dearborn, Mich.

To people who want something for nothing

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable, too.

For one thing, we refuse to poison anyone's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse, also, to adopt the role of tricky trader—that is, pretending to offer you a larger trade-in allowance, and taking it away from you in some other way. Ford trade-in values are high, but we do not make fictitious allowances in order to get a sale which may be otherwise disadvantageous to the buyer. Our dealers take used cars upon a system of values, not by haggling or barter.

In this world no one gets something for nothing, although there are many ways of making people think that they do. The sure way to get value for value is, first, by being yourself willing to deal on that basis, and second, by dealing with a concern that has no other policy.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest-priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the new Ford V-8 is the best car we have made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car places it at the head of our line to date.

Anyone wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.

Pittsburgh Takes Measure Of Brooklyn 11 To 8 After Spotting Big Lead

YANKEES GAIN FIRST PLACE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 19.—Pittsburgh, entrenched in third place four games behind the pace-setting Giants, gets it big chance to make a decisive bid for the National League pennant in the six-game series with the New Yorkers that start in the Smoky City today.

One crucial series has ruined many a Pittsburgh team in the past dozen years, and by the same token victory in five of these six important contests will put the pre-season pennant favorites abreast of the Giants and bolster their none too steady morale.

Successful in nine out of thirteen games during their present home stand, the Bucs have their hitting togs on for the battle with Bill Terry's all-star mound staff. They have amassed a total of 49 blows in their last three starts.

Three Straight

Yesterday the Pirates made it three straight over Brooklyn, 11 to 8, after spotting the Dodgers to a six-run lead. Tony Piet drove in the tying and winning markers after sloppy playing by Wright and Lopez had given Pittsburgh a new lease on life. Vaughan also starred with four hits.

The Giants also staged a slugging carnival. Combing three Cincinnati pitchers for 19 hits in a 14 to 1 landslide. Blondy Ryan amazed even himself by collecting four blows and Vergez hit a homer with the bases loaded. The Reds scored their first earned run off Schumacher in 33 innings but Hal had no trouble in hanging up his eleventh victory of the season.

Cubs Win

Lon Warneke turned in his twelfth triumph, outpitching Ben Cantwell of the braves 4 to 1 and keeping the Cubs in second place. Gabby Hartnett's 12th homer featured.

The Yankees buried the White Sox under a 9 to 4 score for their ninth consecutive triumph, the longest winning streak in the Majors this year, and took undisputed possession of first place in the American League as Washington lost to the tail-end Browns again. Johnny Allen outpitched Lyons and Gregory and Dixie Walker led the attack with three hits, including his ninth homer in little more than a month.

Jack Russell of the Senators outpitched Blaeholder and Gray of St. Louis but his two errors in the first inning gave the Browns three runs, Washington losing 4 to 3.

Monte Pearson, up from Toledo, held the Red Sox to four hits and hurled Cleveland to a 2 to 1 decision. He also singled and scored the winning run. Half and jolly hit homers.

Jackson Chased

Homers by Stone and Fox in the eighth staked Vic Sorrell of Detroit to a 5 to 2 triumph over Rube Walberg of the Athletics.

Chuck Klein regained the lead in the National league home run derby by poling No. 18 against the Cardinals, but his mates could do little against Dizzy Dean and the Phils lost 9 to 4. Johnny Jackson was knocked out of the box by St. Louis.

Universals Will Oppose Petrolia

First Half Champs Of Butler County League Play Here Thursday

Jackie Reider of the Universal Sanitary baseball club announced today that the Universals will meet the Petrolia club of the Butler county league, Thursday night at Centennial field. The contest will start at 6:30 o'clock D. S. T.

The Petrolia aggregation captured the first half title of the Butler county circuit. The vistors have a fast collection of sandlot players, according to reports. Lefty Smith who is reputed as being one of the best flingers in this district may hurl against the locals. Krankota, who is a Duquesne University star is also on the Petrolia lineup. The visitors have a fast club. Reider stated that the visitors will give the local independent club plenty of opposition.

Manager Gus Thompson will likely send Lowers, or Shaffer against the Petrolia nine. Thompson, Jewie Coen, Paul McCullough and Jack Reider who have seen some of the best pitchers in the country, believe Shaffer has possibilities of developing into a good hurler. Shaffer, who is a righthander, has won three contests and hasn't lost one yet. Against Butler, Shaffer looked impressive last Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon the Universals will travel to Altoona, Pa., where they will play the Altoona railroad nine. The Altoona team is the best baseball team composed of railroaders in the country.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Lyn Lary, shortstop of the N. Y. Yankees, has taken out name insurance on a five and a half pound boy to which his wife, Mary Lawlor of musical comedy fame, gave birth Sunday.

"The baby," Lyn explained, "has been named Lynford Lawlor Lary, so that if he turns out to be as good looking as his mother he can go into the movies with a nifty monicker and if he looks like his dad, why, he'll be just a ball player and they can call him Lyn Lary."

Baer-Carnera Bout Delayed

Garden Officials Feel That Three Heavyweight Bouts Are Too Much

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Max Baer, conqueror of Max Schmeling, will have to wait until next year for a crack at Primo Carnera's heavyweight crown. It was announced at Madison Square Garden that negotiations for a Baer-Carnera fight this September have been dropped.

There never were three big heavyweight scraps in one year in the boom days of boxing and the Garden feels a title bout this fall, in the wake of the Baer-Schmeling and Carnera-Sharkey fights, would be too much of a strain on the public's pocketbook.

The Garden may stage a show at Miami next February between da Preem and "some formidable opponent," identity undisclosed and perhaps unknown, and then trot out Carnera and Baer in June.

Col. John Kilpatrick, former Yale football star, was installed formally yesterday as president and treasurer of the Garden, succeeding William F. Carey. The Colonel announced he hoped to stage more commercial shows and concerts at the Garden, dropping minor sports events if necessary.

ALEX MORRISON says:

Golf is a two-handed game wherein the only way the hands can be made to harmonize in their movements is by having the weaker of the two hands lead their movements.

This requirement means that anything the golfer does with one hand, particularly with the strong hand, directly interferes with his swing.

Handball, baseball, tennis or bowling are bound to cultivate a one-handedness which will surely crop out when the individual goes to swing a golf club.

Walking, rowing and swimming are about the only exercises outside of golf that will find you making use of the same muscles as you bring into play in swinging a club.

Dempsey And Bride Are On Honeymoon

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CALNEVA LODGE, LAKE TAHOE, Nev., July 19.— William Harrison Dempsey, onetime heavyweight champion prizefighter of the world, and his pretty bride, the former Hannah Williams Kahn, of Broadway musical comedy fame, were on their honeymoon here today following their marriage yesterday in Elko.

Tired from their automobile drive under a hot sun 600 miles across the desert, Dempsey and his bride arrived late yesterday and took quarters in a bungalow near Calneva Lodge on the shores of Lake Tahoe.

They were guests of honor at a dinner party for twelve persons in the crowded dining room here last night.

An orchestra played the wedding march when Dempsey, wearing a dark gray doubled breasted suit, and the new Mrs. Dempsey, attired in a small green ensemble, trimmed in white, with hat and shoes to match, entered the dining room.

For the next half hour they cuddled and held hands under glaring lights installed by newsreel camera men and news photographers.

Dempsey said they expect to remain here "three or four days to rest up," and will then proceed to California "on a business trip."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Some of the ball players in the Lawrence county league have returned to jobs they left when the depression came along. As a result it has been necessary to postpone several games as some clubs have had trouble putting a full team in the field on scheduled dates. League officers have indicated that this will be the only reason acceptable, excepting rain, for postponing a game.

Fragine pitched for Mahoning against Orrs last week and turned in a neat game. He struck out 15 Orrs and according to Manager Nick Cangey may be sent to the mound when Mahoning and Orrs play another game. "We will play over the games with the Orrs and West Pittsburg and win 'em both" said Nick following the commissioners meeting several nights ago.

Orders that all expenditures for athletics at all state educational institutions must be made from receipts of athletic funds were issued several weeks ago by the board of control at the opening of its inquiry into athletic funds.

AVOID SHAVING IRRITATION URGES SKIN CLINIC!

SERIOUS skin trouble is traced to faulty shaving by the Gillette Skin Clinic. This department, headed by an eminent dermatologist, was founded because of the prevalence of disorders caused or aggravated by shaving.

"Avoid irritation, if you would keep your skin clear and free from blemishes," warns the Skin Clinic. "Irritation lessens the self-protective action of the normal skin and favors skin troubles. Be sure to use a sharp blade, because a sharp blade is not irritating to normal skin."

This advice, issued by the Skin Clinic, is based upon independent research and a nation-wide survey conducted among doctors and dermatologists. The "BLUE BLADE" is made to meet the requirements of skin specialists. It is extremely sharp—23% to 42% sharper than other blades examined by photo-electric method in a recent competitive test.

To avoid skin irritation—and enjoy a degree of shaving comfort you may never have experienced—we urge you to try the "BLUE BLADE". Gillette Safety Razor Company, Boston, Mass.

RAILROADS SHOW NEW BUSINESS GAIN

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Crashing values for the overbulled liquor shares today overshadowed security and commodity markets.

A wave of selling on the good news of the Arkansas and Alabama repeal victories swept over the "wet" issues from the opening. With their speculative position weakened by yesterday's nose-dive, losses ran to more than 8 points before signs of support appeared.

The rest of the market weakened in sympathy after a fairly firm opening and the whole list took on a distinctly reactionary tone. The only groups to show resistance were the rails, gold shares and some of the utilities but these were forced to retreat after an early rallying effort.

The dollar weakened further as Sterling rose to par for the first time since England went off the gold standard. Commodities were generally reactionary, led by wheat, cotton and rubber. Bonds were firm.

The important business indices of steel and power production showed the first check since the record-breaking recovery from the March lows. Railroad traffic, however, continued into new high ground for the year.

Her opponents had a big diamond hand, shoved the bidding up to five; she bid a grandslam, it was doubled and redoubled; she scored 2,490 points. (Side was not vulnerable.)

UP MT. WASHINGTON IN HIGH!

Essex TERRAPLANES Smash Record

CENTER—Stock Terraplane 8 scales rocky peak with gear-shift lever locked in high gear

Holder of Pike's Peak Record Now Undisputed Champion

Mt. Washington, N. H., June 30—Two stock Essex Terraplanes, a Six and an Eight, under official supervision of the American Automobile Association, both broke the all-time automobile record up Mt. Washington today—the Six by 51 seconds; the Eight by 1 minute, 16 seconds.

As a climax to the day's work, the Terraplane Eight, starting with the gearshift lever locked and sealed in high gear, climbed to the summit in high gear all the way—a feat unparalleled in the history of the mountain. The farthest point ever before reached by any car in high gear was the half-way house.

These achievements, added to the great Pike's Peak victory in which a Terraplane Six also beat the all-time record for all stock cars, regardless of price, makes the Terraplane the undisputed champion for hill-climbing, performance and ruggedness.

We believe this series of records made by Essex Terraplanes constitutes the most powerful evidence ever assembled to prove the ruggedness, reliability and stamina of any make of motor car. No owner's use of his car will ever approach the punishment given these record-breaking Terraplanes.

Institute Week No Longer Held

Legislature Abolishes It After Being In Use For More Than 75 Years

NEW PLAN WILL BE ADOPTED IN STATE

HARRISBURG, July 19—The old-time county institute week has passed out of the public school picture in Pennsylvania. When the 1933 session of the Legislature passed and Governor Pinchot approved a bill finally doing away with an institution that dates back more than three-quarters of a century, provision was made for meetings if teachers as a substitute. Dr. James N. Rule, Superintendent of Public Instruction, has undertaken the task of informing county and local district school officers on various provisions of the new plan.

Under the heading "Suggestions for the Conduct of Meetings of Teachers," the Department of Public Instruction outlines the new law and offers suggestions for programs for one and two-day meetings of teachers which may be county-wide in scope or for smaller divisions of the county, in accordance with the decision of the county superintendent. The new plan applies only to school districts of the fourth class which come under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent. The new law makes no change in teachers' meetings for districts of the first and second classes and in third class districts which employ a superintendent. In such districts the school board may provide any form of teacher training or teacher improvement for its teachers which it may deem proper.

County teacher institutes in Pennsylvania started before the establishment of normal schools and were intended to give teachers opportunity to study teaching methods and educational problems. The first known county institute was in Warren county in 1848 and continued for two weeks. County institutes became general through the 1850's and were legalized by an act of the General Assembly in 1867. The Legislature of 1931 amended the School Code by permitting county superintendents to hold shortened substitute programs for institutes at their discretion. This plan was used in most counties last year with savings of more than $500,000 to school districts. Fewer than twenty counties conducted old-time county institutes last year.

A CHRYSLER for $785

"I've always gone along thinking you had to pay $1800 or more for a Chrysler.

"When I actually inquired, I was downright astonished at the low 1933 prices.

"Imagine buying that Chrysler Six Sedan for $785 f. o. b. Or the Royal Eight for $925. The Imperial for $1295!

"It's all the more amazing when you drive the cars and learn what they're like.

"I've always preferred a Chrysler . . . always admired what the name stood for . . . always felt that it reflected credit on a man's judgment and position in life. And at today's prices. I can't see how I can afford to buy anything else.

"I figure a Chrysler will stand up better than ordinary cars. With that patented Floating Power engine mounting, there is no vibration to rack and strain the car. They have a new kind of T-slot piston they say outwears the car. And with those alloy steel inserts you practically never have to grind the valves.

"They tell me that there are actually some twenty odd automatic or self-servicing devices on these cars. That means a lot less money for service and adjustments.

"It's not surprising that everybody is talking Chrysler these days. With all that Chrysler gives and the little a Chrysler costs, it's hard to find anything anywhere near Chrysler's value."
